Stony Plain Consolidated.

Stony Plain Consolidated School District ratepayers held their regular annual meeting in the Town Hall on Friday afternoon last, with Chairman Hardwick presiding. About a dozen were present from this district, and apparently none present from the Lindley S. D. but it is true.

The financial statement for the past year was read; as also were reports from the School Principal and School Inspector.

An animated discussion took place on the doings of the Trustees for the year just elapsed, particularly with regard to the formation of the new Consolidated district.

Trustee Geo Opperthausen's term having expired, he was unanimously re-elected by those present.

More 'Desperate Conditions'

Another "poor farmer" of Stony Plain district last week received a check from an Edmonton packing plant for only $236.80 for a truckload of hogs, three of which went select. This gentleman lives four miles from town, and is John Lutz, who raises hogs in preference to selling his grain!

Listen to This!

Practically everybody is taking advantage of the free Radio Phone service at the Stony Plain Garage, every evening, and all express themselves as highly pleased with the entertainment. Children's evening is on Friday, from 7 to 9 p.m., when a program exclusively for young people will be put on. The admission is free, and all will be admitted up to the capacity of the machine. Friday evening has seen a large crowd of juveniles present, and all went away pleased.

Personal Mention.

Miss Mary Miller, Edmonton, was visiting with her parents in Stony Plain, on Sunday.

Assemblyman Washburn motored a party of friends to the City on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. G. W. Donaldson was a business visitor in Edmonton for two days last week.

Mr. Neal Sutherland, of Peace River, was a visitor over the week end with Mr. R. E. Wood.

Mr. Hal Laird, from Detroit, is expected to shortly arrive in Stony, on a visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Muriel McKinlay and Miss McLeod motored to Edmonton on Saturday, where Mr. McKinlay was a delegate to the U. F. Political Convention.

Mr. Wm Gilbert was called in to Edmonton on Friday last, to be present at the meeting of the Executive of the Alberta Swine Breeders' Association.

The Misses Annabel and Marguerite Paul of Tecumseh spent the holidays at the James Noble Ranch, the guests of Mrs. Parry. Mrs. Parry accompanied the young ladies to Edmonton.

Miss Muriel Barker, who has been so ill at the Royal Alexandra Hospital, is progressing nicely; and has been able to return to her home in Carvel District. Mr. and Mrs. Barker wish to thank their many friends for the many acts of kindness shown during the severe illness of their daughter Muriel.

Develop Canada's Foreign Trade

The prosperity of the Canadian people depends upon the development of the natural resources of the Dominion for the use of people both at home and abroad. Possession as yet of a small population, but with a great extent of territory and an enormous wealth in natural resources, it is a self-evident fact that if the development of Canada's resources is limited to the requirements of the home market, it will be very slowly and the prosperity of all people now resident in the Dominion long delayed. While Canada needs population, and the resultant much enlarged home market, it also requires that its foreign trade be encouraged and even rapidly extended.

No nation, any more than an individual family, can become rich and prosperous by trade confined to and carried on among its own members. Particularly in the case of a country like Canada, still largely in an undeveloped and pioneer state compared with other countries, it is essential that the raw materials of our resources be developed and sold to those other nations requiring them, and who in turn have something which Canada cannot produce for itself.

Without encroaching upon the realm of controversial political topics, it can be said that without fear of successful contradiction that the economic, fiscal or trade policy of Canada for many years has been based on the principle of seeking to conserve the home market of Canada, rather than seeking to develop Canada by energetically endeavoring to place Canadian products in foreign markets. That is to say, the theory which has found general acceptance has been that it was more important that Canadian-made goods and products should be sold in Canada, even to the exclusion of foreign-made goods and products, than to develop the use of Canadian products and promote Canadian industry and bring wealth into Canada through the export of our goods and products to other lands.

Without presuming to pass judgment in this column on the wisdom or unwisdom of such a policy in the years that have passed, we are strongly of the opinion that the present Canadian policy is following along correct and sound lines in seeking to obtain a larger entrance for Canadian products into the markets of other countries. The action of the Dominion Government during the past few months in negotiating trade treaties with France, Italy and Australia, and in opening negotiations for similar treaties with Belgium and Spain, and possibly with other countries, is undoubtedly in line with the present-day requirements of Canadian industry and progress.

It is an illuminating fact recorded in the press recently that, following the signing of such a policy in the years that have passed, we are strongly of the opinion that the present Canadian policy is following along correct and sound lines in seeking to obtain a larger entrance for Canadian products into the markets of other countries. The action of the Dominion Government during the past few months in negotiating trade treaties with France, Italy and Australia, and in opening negotiations for similar treaties with Belgium and Spain, and possibly with other countries, is undoubtedly in line with the present-day requirements of Canadian industry and progress.

It is an illuminating fact recorded in the press recently that, following the signing of such a policy in the years that have passed, we are strongly of the opinion that the present Canadian policy is following along correct and sound lines in seeking to obtain a larger entrance for Canadian products into the markets of other countries. The action of the Dominion Government during the past few months in negotiating trade treaties with France, Italy and Australia, and in opening negotiations for similar treaties with Belgium and Spain, and possibly with other countries, is undoubtedly in line with the present-day requirements of Canadian industry and progress.

Canadians can, generally speaking, be depended upon to give a preference in their purchases to the products of their own fields and factories when these can be obtained of as good quality as those of other countries. Both national pride and self-interest dictate the use by Canadians of Canadian-made articles, and compulsion is not needed to promote such trade. But the active interest and assistance of Government is required to open the doors and pave the way for an expansion in Canada's export trade. This is about all a Government should be expected to do. It then remains for transportation interests, both railway and mercantile marine, for financiers, manufacturers and commercial interests generally, to seize the opportunity presented to them and push Canada's wares into these markets.

It is to be hoped the steps already taken to extend Canada's trade abroad will be continued. Canada needs the services of a larger number of alert and efficient trade commissioners abroad, men appointed not through political pull, or with the hope of providing a soft berth for some friend or party worker, but keen commercial travellers or sales managers for Canada, men on the spot in the world's trade centres who will improve every opportunity to introduce Canadian goods into those markets, and who will promptly report every favorable factor that can be utilized for Canada's benefit.

A big, broad, comprehensive trade policy, national in its scope and international in its operations, in one of the things which, rightly conceived and energetically directed, will prove a powerful agency in bringing a return of industrial and commercial activity to Canada and prosperity to its people.

Would Enlarge Probation System

Recommendations to Go Before the Council of the Canadian Bar Association

An increase in the system of probation; permission to administer spanking as punishment for youthful offenders; the necessity of at least five years as a barrister-at-law in order to become eligible for appointment to a judgeship or a magistracy; administration of prisons after the manner of factories, where wages should be paid to prisoners, to go largely to the support of the prisoners' families; are some of the recommendations to go before the Council of the Canadian Bar Association.

Bar Association. They were read by Judge Coatsworth at a meeting of the York Pioneers' Society in Toronto.

With regard to the present-day method of treatment of prisoners, Judge Coatsworth said: "It has been found that 50 to 90 per cent of the offenders who are placed on probation or parole live up to the required standard and find their way back to respectable society."

A Land of White Houses

People in Bermuda Use No Color in Building

The Bermudas are a land of white houses. No other color is to be seen. They are all built of the native white stone of coral formation, which underlies every foot of soil. When first quarried the stone is so soft that it may be cut with a knife, but it hardens with exposure to the air. When a Bermudian wishes to build himself a house, all he has to do is to buy himself a piece of land and scrape off a foot or two of soil to reach his quarry.

By means of a saw the stone is cut into pieces of the proper size. Then, like slabs of the same material, form the roof. The houses, even including the roofs, are frequently whitewashed on the outside, and contrast strongly with the deep green verdure by which they are surrounded. There are no shutters, as there are in the rest of the world.

Household Hints

Valuable Recipes For the Busy Housewife

Bailey Hermit

1 cup brown sugar, 3 cups flour,
1/4 cup shortening, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg.
2 well beaten eggs.
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 teaspoon salt.
1/4 cup chopped nuts.
1/4 cup chopped Sun-Maid Raisins.
1/4 teaspoon baking soda.
1 1/2 tablespoons milk or water.
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves.
Cream shortening, gradually working in sugar, raisins and eggs, then stir in the soda which has been dissolved in the milk. Mix and sift together the salt, flour and spices, stir into the first mixture, cover and let stand for an hour or more, then roll to 1/4 inch thickness and cut with round cutter. Bake in a rather quick oven (375 degrees F.) for about 20 minutes.

Raisin Caramel Frosting

2 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup brown sugar,
1/4 cup hot water.
1 stiffly beaten egg white.
1/4 cup chopped Sun-Maid Raisins.
Cook sugar and water until it threads when dropped from the tip of a spoon. Remove from fire and when bubbling ceases stir slowly into egg white. Beat until thick enough to spread. Add raisins and spread on cake.

WHY BACKS ACHE

The Kidneys Seldom to Blame—The Trouble Lies in the Blood Purities

There is more nonsense talked about backache than any other trouble. Some people have been frightened into the belief that every backache means deadly kidney trouble. As a matter of fact, most backaches are due to weakness and kidney drugs can't help that. You need something to improve your blood and build you up, and that is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do. Some backaches are really muscular rheumatism; others are due to impurities of such kind as indigestion, constipation and liver troubles. In women most backaches come from any weakness or irregularity of the blood supply. To get rid of the trouble take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to enrich the blood and bring strength to aching backs and weak nerves. M. W. Prince, Lovering, Ont., tells what these pills did for him. He says: "Periodically I suffered for about five years with backache. At first I could not get it seemed to settle in my back which pained me so badly that I could hardly turn over in bed. These attacks would last for a week or ten days. I tried many remedies but they did not help. At last I was advised to follow his advice with the best of results, as I have had no attack of the trouble since." For sure that I am permanently relieved."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, about 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dairying in Alberta

Dairying is the mainstay of farming in the Vermilion district. Between May 1st and October 31st, 1922, approximately 600,000 pounds of butter were shipped to Vancouver. During the months of June, July and August that local dairy company paid out $800 daily for cream to various patrons.

Drives Asthma Before It. The smoke or vapor from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy gives asthma the chance to run. It eradicates the cause. Your experience with the relieving remedy shows how actual positive is the power it gives. It is the result of long study and experiment and was not submitted to the public until its makers knew it would do its work well.

Do Not Neglect It!

Hattonford, Alta.: "Being run down after the flu, I was in a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and short breathing, followed by fainting. It seemed as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous 'Golden Medical Discovery' I sent for a bottle, followed the directions, and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for restoring my health, and I gladly recommend this 'Medical Discovery' for it is so pure, and worth a trial to anyone who is run down.—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalide Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Mindard's Liniment for Rheumatism

Movement Of Western Crop Was Unparalleled In The History Of Grain Marketing

In the spring of 1922, the outlook for the world's bread supply was far from encouraging. In the Canadian West and United States Northwest, bad weather delayed and hampered seeding, and the condition of the great winter wheat crop in the southwest was at a very low ebb.

In early summer the gloom had gone. Apart from a few limited areas, Canada's great spring wheat crop had gone right ahead. There was neither drought nor hail, wind or frost to greatly deteriorate prospects. No armies of grasshoppers or other pests invaded the land. The dreaded black rust did not appear. It is true that a large area in Saskatchewan fell below early promise, but even in the most unfortunate districts there was no crop failure. Harvest was general in the Canadian West in August. In the United States the winter wheat crop had been already gathered and had turned out well, while the spring wheat crop was much superior in both quality and quantity to that of any year since 1915.

North America had not failed in its contribution to the bread basket of the world, and Canada itself had certainly done its share. The industry of her farmers had contributed not less than 200,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed her people and help to keep the mills going in the Mother Country and the continent of Europe. Of this wheat's quality the daily inspections bear eloquent testimony. Of the wheat already inspected, 70 per cent has graded No. 1 Northern, 16 per cent, graded No. 2 and 9 per cent No. 3 Northern, and only 5 per cent has fallen into the lower grades. Both in quantity and quality this has been a record crop.

The cost of production was less this year than in the later years of the war period, but greater than in the pre-war days. Wheat threshing, for example, in pre-war days cost 10 cents a bushel. This season it has been about 15 cents. The total bill for threshing must have run close to $60,000,000. Nobody assumes the threat of making excessive profits. But the toll taken by the threshing greatly exceeds that taken by country elevators, terminal elevators and the grain trade combined. The cost of production, of course, varies on every farm, and it is impossible to state it. The well-known grain man who himself farms extensively and keeps a very systematic set of books, figures it at 75 cents a bushel to grow wheat for an average crop.

There were great difficulties in the morning of the crop but wonders were accomplished. J. B. Craig, President of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, summarizing the marketing of the crop, up to the close of navigation, says:

"From harvest to the close of navigation there was delivered to country elevators, 250,000,000 bushels of wheat. There was inspected 200,000,000 bushels and there was shipped east, 175,000,000. As the crop was a record crop so the movement was a record movement. And the remarkable feature of this record movement was the absence of trouble caused by it so far as the west is concerned. I have not heard of any wheat being piled up in heaps or the open, or emergency sheds being needed at shipping stations, or any serious cash shortage or any blockade at the lake terminal elevators.

"Between the Great Lakes and the Rockies there is elevator facilities with about 175,000,000 bushels capacity, created and operated by private enterprise. This machinery has been fully adequate to the call made upon it. The two great railway systems earned their need-of-grain for the transporting of this immense quantity, but without an adequate elevator machinery and an efficient system of marketing the railways couldn't have been so successful.

"The wheat was sold under many difficulties by the grain trade. Every farmer who wished to sell found a buyer; every farmer who wished to hold in store and to receive an advance upon his wheat found elevator space and obtained a loan. The banks furnished credits to the grain companies, the grain companies bought from the farmer or gave him an advance. The physical machinery worked without a hitch and the result was a movement unparalleled in the history of wheat marketing."

East of the Great Lakes and at the seaboard, things did not work out as well as in the west. There was trouble early in the movement and it was well towards the end of the season when the movement was far from at the peak that any marked movement was noticeable. The west had done its share. It had produced the wheat, sold the wheat and sent it on its way to the consumer overseas. Ocean tonnage was ample. But the facilities for moving grain from the lake ports to Montreal and at Montreal were inadequate and the rail routes from Buffalo were under-equipped and had other pressing service. There was congestion, demurrage, premiums and increases in lake freight. Lake freight rates actually increased from 24¢ to 30¢ a bushel. The Vancouver Panama route, which might have been expected to relieve the strain, also broke down, lacking terminal facilities, and at the most critical time there was an embargo on grain shipments to Vancouver.

These conditions led to attacks on the Dominion coastwise laws and to a renewal of the agitation that the lake transportation companies should come under the jurisdiction of the Board of Railway Commissioners. The necessity for the development of the St. Lawrence route, the deep waterways project, came to the front and has many strong advocates among the business men of the west. There is also a recognition of the almost unbearable Hudson Bay route and its advocates will not be silent from now to the end of the crop year.

In the marketing of the crop the market factors of principal importance are not hard to distinguish. The factor most favorable to the Canadian farmer is that the world is not overstocked with wheat. The adjustment of supply to demand from now to next July is very close. Russia is a long way from resuming place as a wheat exporter. It will probably be years before her agriculture recovers even its low condition of pre-war days. In other European countries the year's production was below average and in Germany the year crop a failure. The combined surpluses of Australia and Argentina are less than last year. Broom Hall, Julius Barnes and B. W. Snow agree that the margin of supply over the world's needs will be small and Canada has yet some 100,000 bushels of high grade wheat to sell.

Everywoman's Fund Grows

Tubercular Women of Saskatchewan to Benefit by Worthy Object

Up to January 7, the amount for the $50,000.00 Fund for the care of 50 tubercular women in the province had reached $14,628. It is known that a number of other gifts for the fund are on the way.

Gifts already acknowledged from friends at Canadian, Pense, Liberty, Antelope, Estevan, Richardson and South Qu'Appelle totalled $16,150.

If the 50 women are to be given care in 1923, the gifts should be received as early as possible. Donations for the $50,000.00 Fund may be sent to A. B. Cook, Business Manager of the Saskatchewan, Port (Appelle) to The Leader, Regina, or to Mrs. E. W. Bates, 2085 Angus Street, Regina. All donations will be promptly acknowledged.

The 50 women who will benefit by the $50,000.00 Fund are from all parts of Saskatchewan, more particularly from the rural municipalities that are not in a position to pay for the care of their own penniless people.

The reports of persons who should have medical care and yet cannot pay for it are received by the Anti-Tuberculosis League from the nurses on the Provincial Department of Public Health Staff, the school nurses, the municipal officials, and from many others whose desire is to stamp tuberculosis out of the province.

As Turkey the moment the roof is built over a new house it is customary to hang from the most prominent eave a string of garlic, with an old shoe, to keep off the evil eye.

Prominent Canadian Returns

Lt. Col. A. M. Jarvis, formerly of the Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police.

Col. Jarvis has just returned on board the Canadian Pacific steamer, Montana, from a trip abroad. During his thirty-two years service with the police, Colonel Jarvis, who rose from the ranks, travelled over 2,000 miles with dog teams and sledges over unexplored parts of Canada. He also directed the building of the first police post at the summit of the Rocky Mountains in the police in 1911, and is now fruit farming outside Victoria, Vancouver Island. He also has a 1,000-acre wheat farm near Calgary, Alberta. During the war he saw five years' active service and held the rank of lieutenant-colonel, attached to the headquarters staff, 2nd Canadian Division.

Mrs. Ix is a Good Mother, but Her Husband is a Poor Father.

I HAVE told you about the Chamade and the Moulton, but I did not tell you of a very interesting little cousin of these animals belonging to the Gout family. I am speaking of the Ix. Have you ever seen one? All you have to do is to open almost any A. B. C. book and under the I you may be sure to see a picture of an Ix. Of course there are some books that have pictures and rhymes about the Ix (the sacred Egyptian bird of long ago), but as a rule you will find a drawing of the Ix. Try it and write me if I am wrong.

My story begins with an argument between Pinzie and an Ix. Ix had come all the way from Switzerland to the End-of-the-Earth to see Stella, the Wishing Fairy.

Pinzie has a perfectly disgraceful talent for getting into trouble and it seems that he tried to "boast" the Ix into drinking from the Gout-Little-Pool, and the gentle Ix not having any clear idea or understanding whatsoever of why he should obey, very naturally forgot all about being gentle and used his horns instead, with such strength and enthusiasm that poor little Pinzie was buried till straight towards Stella and the other three Brownies.

"Goodness, gracious!" he cried, as he landed upside down at the Wishing Fairy's feet. "I seem to have started something!"

"You certainly have!" grunted the Ix. "But, what's more important, I am finishing it!"

"Well," laughed Stella, as she stepped between them, "don't finish poor Pinzie as well! He was only trying to make you understand our rules. You must drink from the Gout-Little-Pool so as to become little enough to talk with me. Go back and do it and I will wait here for you."

While the Ix obeyed, Pinzie picked himself up and brushed some dust from his clothes and tried his hardest to look dignified, considering that a moment before he had been wrong side up, cap off and his mouth full of sand.

Unlike most of Stella's visitors, the Ix had no wish for Stella to grant; he had only come to chat with her. And what a long talk they had! He told her all about his home among the snow covered mountains and about their great herds!

"I suppose," he said, "that we old males must seem very unfriendly to our wives. We leave them for most of the year and live alone away up on the mountain peaks as far as we can climb. I don't know why," he added, "but families of young rough and tumble kids get on our nerves and we backs-eevy attitude. When our baby goats come, we fathers run away and leave our wives to bring them up and to teach them the habits and rules of our way of living. No one can protect babies as well and as cleverly as mothers. Just think, whenever danger is near, our wives run and leap from peak to peak in the most reckless way so that their enemy will follow them, and all the while our kids hide behind the rocks and never stir until the danger is past. It's wonderful. Our wives, too, have horns so that they really don't need our help. They teach the little goats to go up the crags to rest as soon as the sun rises and the sun goes down below the snow line in the afternoon so as to be near the grass; for we sleep grass at night and we eat in the forests that lie below the snow line."

"Why?" Snookums asked curiously. He had been standing close by and listening just as hard as he could.

"Because we have to live from our enemies," was the answer. "Our worst enemies are Humans, and in this way we fool them."

"Yes," Snookums asked, thoughtfully. "There is a bird called a crow that plays the same trick when a hunter comes near her nest, her brown feathered babies cough down so close to the ground that they look exactly like clusters of dried leaves, while the mother flies away like a flash farther and farther from her nest and generally flutters as though her wing were broken so that the hunter thinks he has shot her and is so busy following her that he forgets all about the nest. When the hunter goes away the crow flies up above the nest and away she flies! It is a splendid idea—a great trick. But," added the Ix, "to go back to your family. I think you are a rather poor kind of father. You leave your wives to their wiles. I guess you are right," and shameless Mr. Ix actually laughed!

Finding Ways And Means Of Improving The Conditions Of The Farmers Of The West

We should all be concerned in making agriculture more profitable. This may appear to some as merely saying "an undisputed thing in such a solemn way," but unfortunately the impression is abroad among Western Canadian farmers that those in other occupations lack sympathy with them in their troubles through which they are passing and much that they read and hear serves to confirm this impression.

They point to the opposition which has been offered to various proposals for the improvement of their situation which have been made from within their own ranks. Some of these were so unground that they were bound to react against those for whose benefit they were brought forward. But when the farmers are told that this is the case, they ask if we have no alternative suggestions to make. Are we going to do nothing for their relief?

A merely negative attitude, it is clear, will not suffice. It appears that they are better off than those of any other country, but this does not alter the fact that they are having a very hard time of it and that the general interests demand that everything possible should be done to improve conditions for them.

The country can make no substantial progress with agriculture in a state of discouragement. No one will deny that this is true of that part of it which lies west of the Great Lakes. But the eastern provinces also should recognize how dependent they are on the prosperity of the men who are out on the land to the west.

Farsighted individuals in the older sections of the Dominion are quite conscious of this, but it needs to be driven home to the mass of people there. It was only with the settlement of the prairie that eastern industry began to move forward. To-day eastern industry is suffering from the diminution in the purchasing power of the west. Accordingly, the Canadian public as a whole cannot afford to be indifferent to the western rural situation.

Positive measures must be taken to improve it. Immigration will help greatly through bringing about more intensive settlement, but the effort that is being made in that direction is certain to be impeded by what those who are disposed to come to Canada hear about the state of those who are already settled here.

While recognizing that we are largely in the grip of world-wide economic forces, and that the chief need of the moment for Canadians as for people everywhere, is to have the work of the war readjustment speeded up, we ought to be able to accomplish much on our own initiative, which will put western agriculture on a better basis. The chief responsibility lies with the Government at Ottawa. Why should it not summon immediately a conference at which all the interests of the Dominion would be represented for the purpose of considering the state of western agriculture and devising measures for its betterment? If this were summoned without delay, it could make recommendations on which Parliament, which will meet at a later date than usual, could act.

Those who believe that the establishment of a wheat board would be of great benefit, and those who are opposed to this move could be brought face to face and that question could be thoroughly threshed out. Messrs. Stewart and Riddell are asked to make it clear why they did not think the plan of last year could be made effective and why accordingly they refused to undertake to direct it. President Wood of the U.F.A. could throw light on his refusal to head the board while at the same time containing his great bulk of the idea.

The advocacy of citizens, both those who are farmers and those who are not, must be anxious to see grain marketing conditions improved, so that the farmer will obtain the maximum advantage from the sale of his product. Every avenue that might lead to this result should be explored. Such a conference might force a thorough investigation of the present grain trade system such as has begun by the Hydraulic Commission. The present Government virtually pledged itself to resume this, only to announce later that it had decided against doing so. The handling of grain is a very complicated matter and the average person finds it difficult to follow the discussions that are arising all the time in connection with it. But he more than suspects that the farmer is not being treated with absolute fairness and that further measures for his protection are required.

There are many other matters which might be taken up at the suggested conference. Its effect in bringing the east and west together and making them understand how necessary it is for them to get together for the country's good would be very great. The psychological influence upon the western farmer would be far-reaching. He would see that he was mistaken in the belief that the people of the rest of the country didn't care what became of him. He would take up his work, the most vital Canadian work of all, with new heart.

The times may be out of joint, but we owe it to ourselves to do everything in our power to put them in. There has been altogether too much of a disposition to sit back and let things take their course. Such an effort as has been outlined should not only help the present situation, but it would put the Dominion in a much better position to provide for the marked improvement in world conditions when this comes. There are many signs that it is closer at hand than most people think.—The Edmonton Journal.

CHAPTER IV.
The Gathering Storm

On the north bank of the river, from which it derived its name, the town of Crawling Water lay sprawled out in the shape of an irregular horn. Its original settlers had been men of large ideas, and having had plenty of space at their disposal, they had used it lavishly. The streets, bordered by dusty, weather-beaten, frame buildings, were as wide as those of a large city; indeed, in area, the town could compete with many a metropolis; but there the resemblance ended. Crawling Water was not fated to become a big city. The fact that the nearest railroad point was at Sheridan, forty miles away, had done away with any ambitions that Crawling Water might have had to be more than a neighborhood center.

The mixed population was composed of cattle men, sheep men, cow punchers and herders, with a sprinkling of gamblers and other riff-raff. Rough, uncouth, full-blooded men, they were, for the most part; hard working; decisive in their likes and dislikes; fearing neither God nor man; they met life as they found it and faced death with a laugh. They were the last of a fast disappearing type, picturesque, but lacking in many of the attributes which differentiate mankind from the beasts.

Hardly more than a village, Crawling Water was yet a town, and the seat of such machinery of government as had been established, and accordingly, Gordon Wade had ridden directly thither after his far from satisfactory interview with Oscar Jensen. After he had stabled his horse and seen it fed, he started up the street in the direction of Moran's office. He was resolved to find out where the agent stood on the sheep question without any unnecessary delay. Save

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was to run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend it to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."

(Mr. J. W. Vance, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.") for a few dogs, sleeping in the blaze of the noon-day sun, which hung over head like a ball of fire, the town seemed deserted.

When Wade entered the office, Moran was seated at his desk, chewing on a cigar, above which his closely cropped reddish mustache bristled. Like Senator Rexhill, he was a man of girth and bulk, but his ape-like body was endowed with a strength which not even his gross life had been able to wreck, and he was always muscularly fit. Except for the miner's hip boots, which he wore, he was rather handsomely dressed, and would have been called tastefully so in the bettering ring of a metropolitan race-track, where his diamond scarf-pin and ring would have been admired.

"Hello!" he boomed as Wade entered. "Have a cigar." He pushed a box of an excellent brand toward his visitor and waved him to a chair. His greeting was noisy rather than cordial.

Wade declined both the chair and the cigar.

"I dropped in to find out why you told Jensen to run his sheep in my range," he began bluntly.

"Let me see—The agent very deliberately lifted a large, white hand and took the cigar out of his mouth. "Just what range is that?"

"The upper valley range which I have under lease."

"Which you have under lease?" Moran affected sarcastic surprise. "I wasn't aware that you had any legal right to that part of the valley. It's government land, ain't it?"

"You seem to have forgotten that you once tried to buy the lease from me." The rancher bared his teeth in a grim smile. "We'll not quibble over that, however. We've got our legal right, all of us; but we're a long distance from the courts here. What I want to know in plain English is, will you order Jensen to trail those sheep? Now, wait a moment."

Moran subdued with a show of tolerance he did not feel.

"Think well before you answer," Wade went on. "I'm not here to threaten you, but there are desperate men in this valley who will kill the masters in their own hands, if this business is not stopped. There's plenty of grizzlies on the lower side of the mountains and your sheep are well come to it. Why don't you make use of it?"

"Why should I? The sheep have a right to be where they are and there they'll stay until I get ready to move 'em. You cattle men think you own this country, but when it comes to the 'horns down, you're a bunch of bluffers." Now, Wade, I made you an offer once—I'll admit it, and I'll make it again for the last time. Sell me your homestead and lease rights at the price I offered you—ten thousand dollars, and get out smiling. There isn't room for the two of us in the valley."

"Ten thousand dollars for the homestead and the lease combined!" Wade laughed mirthlessly. "You're crazy, man. Why, you offered me that much for the lease alone a few weeks ago!"

"Did I? I'd forgotten it. Anyway, it's a fair offer. The land is still owned by Uncle Sam, you know. You haven't proved up on your claims, and you never will if I can help it. We are spending lots of money here, and the government will see that our interests are protected. You cattle men can't hog the whole of the Crawling Water Valley. Times have changed. Well, what do you say?"

The ranchman dismissed the proposition with a gesture, but did not immediately speak. Silently, the two big men faced each other, their glances crossing like rapier; the cattle man like a statue in bronze in the fixed rigidity of his attitude but with an expression that showed him one dangerous to trifle with; the agent affecting that half tolerant amusement which one may feel toward an enemy unworthy of one's prowess. Wade presently broke the silence.

"Moran, you may be a big man in the East, but you're not big enough for the job you've tackled here. I've told my friends back as long as I can—longer than I thought I could—and when they break loose, this valley be a little hell, perhaps a shambles. Men are going to be killed, and I have a feeling that you are going to be one of them. Against that time, once more, I warn you. Tell Jensen to trail his sheep!"

Springing on his heel, the ranchman left the office, paying no attention to the ironical "Good night," which Moran called after him.

In the street, Wade glanced upon the agent, then, as he crossed the bridge of the Circle Heart outfit, who fell into step with him.

"Gordon, how long are we going to stand for this thing? Say, do you know what some are saying about you? Now, I'm your friend, and I'm telling you straight, that you're gone far enough with this pacifist stuff."

"They say I'm afraid, I suppose," Wade stopped and faced Trowbridge. "Have they said that to you?"

"To me? Say, what the — kind of a friend do you take me for?" Trowbridge flamed up like a match.

"No, they haven't said that to me, but they're hinting, and I don't like it."

"Well, if you hear it direct, send the man on to me with it," said Wade, his lips compressing ominously. "I'm about through, Lem, not quite, but pretty nearly. I've told Moran to have Jensen trail those sheep, and if he doesn't —"

Trowbridge nodded and smiled, as they paused at a street corner—one of the few that Crawling Water possessed.

"That's the idea, Gordon. We'll all be the reader for the waiting. Well, I'll not go any farther with you." He winked with elaborate precision and looked in the direction of a snug little cottage, with flower boxes in the windows, a bluish haze away. "She's home. I saw her leave the store yonder a little while ago."

Wade blushed like a boy and looked foolish.

"I don't get into town so very often," he began lamely, when Trowbridge slapped him heartily on the back.

"You don't need to make any excuses to me, old man," he said, moving off. "That little woman has put Crawling Water on edge with admiration. You're not the only one—or maybe, you are."

Secretly eager though Wade was to reach the cottage, the nearer he approached it, the slower he walked, turning at himself for his sudden spinelessness. Although no ladies' man, he had never been woman wary until lately, and this of itself was a sign, the significance of which he was far from realizing. When he was with Dorothy Pursell, he almost forgot her sex in the easy companionability of their relationship; when away from her, he thought no more of her than he might of some man friend; but the approach had become a matter of embarrassing difficulty with him. There had even been occasions when he had walked past the cottage and ridden home without seeing her, trying specially to convince himself that such had all along been his intention.

Something of the sort might have happened now had she not halted him from the open doorway.

"Whither bound, stranger?" she smilingly demanded, in her low, rich contralto. "Better come in where it's cool. Mother'll be glad to see you, and I—shan't mind."

She had come to Crawling Water for the restorative effect of the bracing mountain air upon the health of her mother, who was threatened with nervous invalidism, following the death of Mr. Pursell, two years before. The town called them Easterners because their home was as far East as Michigan, but they had never been city dwellers, as Dorothy's fresh complexion and lithe, alert figure bore witness.

U.F.M. Express Approval Of Dominion Convention Of Organized Farmers

Brandon, Man.—General approval of a "Dominion convention of the organized farmers" was expressed by a resolution of the United Farmers of Manitoba passed unanimously at their convention here, and the suggestion was sent along to the Canadian Council of Agriculture that that body undertake the necessary arrangements.

The convention did not undertake to say when such a gathering should be held, how it should be constituted, nor whether it should deal with all subjects, or if politics should be excluded. It was pointed out that the resolution was not inconsistent with the action taken by the Progressive members of Parliament at their Winnipeg conference looking towards a national convention.

In the discussion of various political resolutions there was casual talk of the "broadening out policy" and some remarks from Robert Forke, M.P., the new Progressive leader.

"I am as democratic as any man," said Mr. Forke, "and I want this movement to come from the people. But we must have some sort of a national organization if we are to get anywhere." He thought that the delegates were "running democracy to earth." Mr. Forke told the delegates that they were afraid of the word "party," but the Progressive members at Ottawa had consensus just like the old parties, and without it they could do nothing effective. There was no connection, he said, between himself and his fellow representatives except that they were all Progressives. There was no co-ordinating agency. So long, he said, as the constituency organizations had control of the nomination of candidates and of the funds, no central organization could take away their democratic control of the situation.

SUFFERED SO FROM HEART AND NERVES LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Mr. A. H. Lee, Beamsville, Ont. writes:—"I am delighted to let you know what I have to say regarding the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did me."

A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was so bad I could not sleep, only about two hours each night. My heart was so bad I had spells where I fell on the road and would faint away, and neighbors would carry me in from my wagon. I also had trouble at night and during my daily work on the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed and was then compelled to walk the floor before I could settle down again, but after taking a few boxes of

INTEREST ADDS TO DEBT

REVENUE FOR DOMINION INCREASES, BUT DEBT ALSO GROWS

Ottawa.—Revenue of the Dominion continues to show an increase over last year. Figures made public by the Department of Finance show an increase in the revenue of $93,227 for the month of December as compared with the same month in 1921. The total revenue last month was $28,522,565 as compared with $28,549,328 in December, 1921. The total revenue for the nine months of the fiscal year ending on December 31, 1922, was $290,174,050, or an increase of $5,903,411 of the revenue for the nine months period in 1921 which was $291,170,639. In spite of the satisfactory revenue, the total net debt of the Dominion increased $20,860,333 during December and now stands at $2,412,496,153. This increase is due largely to heavy interest payments on the debt falling due in December. As a result of these payments expenditures for the month increased by $14,645,353 over the figures of last year.

West Exporting Turkeys

Prairie Provinces Becoming Keen Competitors of Eastern Canada

Toronto.—The centre of the turkey-raising business in Canada has shifted from Ontario to the western provinces, according to H. C. Kerston, of the Crescent Creamery, Limited, Winnipeg, before the Canadian Producers' Association. The west is now exporting nearly a hundred carloads of fowl each year, and he felt that the time has come when concerted effort must be made to get a wider market overseas.

E. M. Raney, of the Swift Canadian Company, urged better packing and grading. He threw out the warning that Ontario has to watch the west, for, as he put it, "if the west makes the same strides in poultry raising as in butter making, then the east will soon be no more than a speck on the map."

Two Earthquakes Reported

Seismograph at Saskatoon Registered Second Within Two Days

San Salvador.—Earth shocks have been felt in various parts of the country in the past few days. The seismographic station at the observatory here announced that the centre of the disturbance was about 70 miles from this city.

Saskatoon.—An earthquake of two hours' duration—the second within two days—was registered by the seismograph at the University of Saskatchewan, Jan. 2. The tremor started at 9.35 and ended at 11.53.

It occurred either in Mexico or South America, the University reported.

Coast Ships Birds to New York Victoria.—A shipment of 50 Vancouver Island quail and other game birds will be sent to Buffalo and other New York State points, through arrangements with the British Columbia Game Conservation Board. The birds, it is understood, will be used for breeding purposes.

France Increases Taxes Paris.—The French Government has decided to increase all direct taxes, except those on salaries, by twenty per cent, as a means of meeting the deficit in this year's budget.

A bad case of Catarrh is not an easy thing to treat, and a remedy that makes good, deserves great credit. Catarrhose certainly fixed up Chas. H. GERMAN AMBASSADOR RECALLED FROM PARIS

REICHSTAG ANNOUNCES BREAK IN OFFICIAL RELATIONS BETWEEN COUNTRIES

Berlin.—Germany has recalled her ambassador at Paris, and action is constituted in official circles as pending war or a state bordering upon war. This move, breaking all official and diplomatic relations between the two countries, was announced by the Reichstag.

Washington.—Withdrawal of the United States troops from the Rhine has been ordered by President Harding.

In announcing the decision, the State Department said the President deemed the time expedient for the recall of the forces now at Coblenz. The United States forces remaining in that area number about 1,000 men, and it was decreed that the withdrawal order would be carried out as soon as the United States commander, Major-General Allen, could make the necessary arrangements for winding up finally the affairs of the army of occupation.

BRITAIN LEADS IN SHIPBUILDING

HAS THREE TIMES TONNAGE OF OTHER NATIONS

New York.—Great Britain still has a big lead over the other nations of the world in shipbuilding, statistics issued by Lloyd's show. Germany now is second in Britain in ship tonnage under construction, having regained the position she held prior to the war.

The amount of work in all countries in which construction is actually proceeding is still well under 1914. Contracts for 564,000 tons of merchant vessels have been suspended.

Britain has nearly three times the tonnage on the ways at her nearest competitors. The United States comes sixth on the list. Canada's shipbuilding is not shown separately, but the British Dominions are credited with an increase of 13,000 tons over their 1914 figures.

FOR OVERSEAS SETTLEMENT

NEW PLAN IS DEvised TO RELIEVE BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT

London.—A novel scheme for overseas settlement in order to relieve the unemployment situation in Great Britain has been formulated by an influential committee at Plymouth. The idea is to form a re-settlement committee on a territorial basis, the members of which would ally themselves to whatever colony was selected for settlers for the purpose of creating employment therein as developing specific areas for the chosen body of emigrants. The necessary capital would be obtained from ordinary investors, the Government guaranteeing the interest over a given number of years.

The dominions, under the proposed scheme, would be asked to draft a number of practical plans for employing 3,000 men every two years.

Patronize your local merchants and thereby help to build up your home town and community.

Berlin.—In a manifesto, President Ebert exhorts the inhabitants of the Ruhr Valley to remain calm, "despite the continuation of French injustice and force, which constitutes a breach of the Versailles treaty," committed against a disarmed and defenceless nation.

"The policy of force which has violated treaties and trampled the rights of humanity now threaten the key district of the German economic world," says the manifesto.

"The execution of the peace treaty thus becomes an absolute impossibility, and, at the same time, the living conditions of the suffering German nation are disorganized."

"Germany was ready to fulfill all the obligations within her power. She has now been attacked without being given a hearing. We lay this act of force before the forum of Europe and the entire world."

Wilhelm Cuno, the Chancellor, said force remains force, whatever its guise. The Chancellor added that Germany would regard the application of arbitrary force as a breach of the Versailles peace treaty and as "the use of might against a defenceless people."

"We have given tangible proof of our readiness voluntarily to fulfill to the extent of our ability the demands upon us if need be, the German people will show equal readiness in further following the path of its affliction."

"There can be no negotiations in an atmosphere of pressure and threats; we cannot oppose violence with violence."

"We are determined, however, and in this we have the concurrence of the German people—to expose in its true light before the world at large the economic folly and complete illegality of the French intentions."

MRS BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I was unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had been about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. Budge, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tortures of a displaced liver, from backache, headaches, nervousness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Alec Jinks on the Farmers' Government.

"All right," says the wife,
"only don't stand on that cellar door; I might want to get some potatoes up for the dinner."

"We must be more dignified," says I, falling over the dog. "We must make ourselves respected by the nation. Everyone looks down on the farmer; thinks he can fool him easy! Look at them storekeepers! We must combine; we must make our weight felt!"

"Mee ouch!" squealed the cat, as I trod on her tail.

"There is too many dogs and cats about!" I says. "The house aint big enough for them as well as the kids—
we are allus treadin' on one or other of 'em!"

"It's so cold outside," said
the wife.

"They can go to the barn,"
I says. "Now, if the Farmers' Government knowed their job it would not happen."

"What wouldn't happen?"
asks the wife—"you tell me that?"

"Why, the way the farmers is cheated and ground down. I wish you'd listen;
what is the use of my sayin'
anything?"

"Yes, what indeed?" echoed my wife. "I didn't ask you to."

"Now this here new settlement scheme," I goes on, ignoring her rudeness. It is sheer folly. What is the sense of increasin' the population
when the farmers as is here cant make a living? We dont want no increase in population at present.

"You're right, Jinks old boy," replies wife, pushing aside half a dozen of the children in her efforts to reach the cupboard, "there's quite enough of us here for the size of the house."

"I meant the population of Alberta, I explains, standing on my dignity and sitting down in a chair. My wife had carelessly left a wash bowl full of water on the chair and the result was both uncomfortable and undigni-fied. That comes of untidi-ness, says I. Everything had ought to be in its place—I dont see how you can blame me for it—I didnt leave on there washbowl there, did I?

How was I to know it was there. Chairs is made to sit on, not to hold wash bowls—it was your business to see that that there wash bowl was in its right place.

"You women get a mighty sight easier time on a farm than us men, and you cant even see the wash bowl is in its proper place!"

"Talk of women going in for politics! They aint got no sense for it! They aint got no logical minds!" I says.

(To be Continued.)

Lands in Default of Taxes.

The execution of more than a hundred transfers of land, which now become the property of the province of Alberta, was one of the first pieces of work on the new year's program in the department of municipal affairs. Title is now being taken to some 124 parcels of subdivided land in improvement districts throughout the province, which have defaulted taxes and will be cancelled.

It is the intention of the government to sell these newly acquired properties as farming land, and they will be put on the market some time during the year, when the listings are completed and conditions are more favorable for selling. A few sales have already been made in the case of subdivid-ed lands cancelled in 1922, and the department has several inquiries now on file in regard to other parcels.

All the lands to which title is now being taken are in improvement districts adjoining cities and towns, but not within the municipal limits. They are said to be good farm land and will be disposed of, as occasion offers, on that basis.

Do Hogs Pay? Sometimes!

The following is reproduced from the Gleichen
"Call" of a recent date: An Alberta editor was asked,
"Do hogs pay?" He replied "a good many do not; they take the paper several years and then have the Postmaster send it back marked "refused" or "gone south."

A New Idea.

When a Chippewa county farmer came to a local banker and paid $1,000 due on the farm, the surprised banker turned inquisitor.

"How did you do it when the farmers cannot even raise the interest?" he asked.

"I made it manufacturing and selling moonshine," the farmer replied. "I've got my farm paid for now and I'm through with the game. I wouldn't make another drop of moonshine on a bet."

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The women of the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, are given the franchise under a measure adopted by the state legislature.

A resolution requesting congress to modify and liberalize the Volstead Prohibition Act was introduced at the opening of the New Jersey Legislature.

The reduced rental charged for grazing privileges on school lands in the western provinces of six cents per acre, instead of ten cents, is to be continued for another year.

Captain George Chanot, one of the two French soldiers who were awarded the Victoria Cross during the Great War, has been appointed magistrate of St. Pierre, Michouan.

The price of sugar has been advanced 15 cents a hundred by the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Limited. It was said that the increase was effective all over Canada.

The cost of living in Germany increased 53.6 per cent in December, the average of prices being 855 times as great as those charged before the war, according to figures published.

An unusual education project is being forwarded by the British Federation of University women. It contemplates taking a 500-year lease of Cross by Hall, a fifteenth century structure on Chelsea embankment, for use as a residence for foreign women graduate students.

Agricultural Training

Beatty Offers Farm Courses in Alberta For Boys of Britain.

Announcement is made that President Beatty, of the C.P.R., is awarding a full summer course at the agricultural schools of Alberta to the four prize winners of the young farmers' clubs of Great Britain.

These organizations have been formed in farming communities of the British Isles and also in Western-Canada, some particular or specialized line of farming being taken up by members. In Saskatchewan, these organizations increased their membership from 460 in 1913 to 30,000 in 1921, and in the same period in Manitoba they have increased from seven clubs to 236 clubs, with 1,500 branch clubs with a total membership of 25,000.

The four selected boys will arrive in Canada in time to commence their summer course at the Alberta agricultural schools in May next. There is a possibility that the award will be made an annual one.

HEALTHY CHILDREN ALWAYS SLEEP WELL

The healthy child sleeps well and during his waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation, colic and indigestion and promote healthful sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and may be given to the newborn babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from 'The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Religion Was Intact

Calgary Citizen Declares Tanais Ended His Rheumatism and Put Him On His Feet

"Tanais lost no time driving out my troubles two years ago, when I had rheumatism, so bad, I could hardly work, and I haven't had a pain since." This emphatic statement was made recently by David A. McArthur, 1042, 10th Ave. E., West Calgary, Alberta, well-known proprietor of tire barber shop at the National Hotel.

"If you ever had a bad toothache," he said, "you will know how I felt, what position I tried to lie in. When I was at work the pains were just as bad or worse, and I was simply miserable."

"What people said about Tanais in the papers started me taking it, and I've been thankful a thousand times. This medicine certainly did the work for me and I gladly recommend it to others."

Tanais is for sale by all good drug stores.

The Useful Echo

Dr. H. C. Hayen, physician, told the National Academy of Science in New York that with an echo you can tell to a hair just how deep the ocean is, at any point in all its 149,000,000 square miles, and with an echo to guide you will be able to navigate safely through a fog so thick that you can't see the bows of your own boat.

Britain's Arable Land

Reduction in Amount of Agricultural Land is Announced

Reduction of the arable area of Great Britain has been continuous since 1913. Land now under the plow is not much greater than immediately before the war, according to a report from the ministry of agriculture. The total area under crops and grass showed less change in 1922 than for several years past, the figures being, 26,025,000 acres in 1922, against 26,140,000 in 1921. The arable area, however, was reduced by 308,000 acres while the permanent grass area was increased by 189,000 acres.

Excellent for Croupy Children.—When a child is suffering with croup it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and chest, earache, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

Dairying in Manitoba

Manitoba's dairying industry has shown remarkable development during the past year. Out of 51,000 farmers in the province there are now 26,000 of them producing and shipping milk and cream.

Powerful Medicine.—The healing properties in six essential oils are concentrated in every bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, forming one of the most beneficial liniments ever offered to the use of man. Many can testify as to its power in allaying pain, and many more can certify that they owe their health to it. Its wonderful power is not expressed by the small price at which it sells.

Indiscriminate Charity

To give alms to the pauper, even to the extent of helping a hungry man, is infinitely better to put him in the way of earning his own dinner, and then he will be able to earn other diners and find his self-respect conserved as well as his self-containment strengthened. To build up independence should be the aim of all sound philanthropy. Anything short of that almost invariably does more harm than good.—Ottawa Journal.

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. An excellent preparation for this purpose is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

Canadians Not Cheese Eaters

There are about 9,000,000 people in Canada, and every one of them over two years of age should be a regular consumer of cheese. Now they eat less than three pounds each a year. They should be consuming twice as much, and even then they would be using only about one-half the quantity per head that is consumed in Great Britain.—Toronto Globe.

Unfortunately for our times, nobody has yet discovered a way to rest in a hurry.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Expeller puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any drugstore's.

Not Very Definite

The fortune-teller was sending cold streams of horror down her victim's back as she predicted the bad things in store for him in the immediate future.

"You will die in a year!" she hissed at last. "This line in your palm tells me so."

"Help!" gasped the victim. "It surely cannot be as bad as that!" "As I said," continued the seer, "you will die in a year—but in what year I cannot say."

Engine Failed to Work.

Details are to hand regarding the disastrous fire which visited Edson last week. The block on Main street between Third and Fourth Avenues was completely destroyed. Those burned out were—Edson ice cream parlor, Idyl Hour Theater, Read's bakery, Elite newsstand, Mis Moore's fancy goods store, and Imperial Bank. The engine failed to work and the fire was fought by a bucket brigade. The damage is estimated at $35,000.

Following a fire there two years ago, Edson was put on what was considered a good footing as regards fire protection, a new fire engine being purchased, also fire reels and hose, and a few water tanks installed, from one of which Stony Plain's new one was copied.

And yet the town had a disastrous fire.

Some Stock Yards

Receipts of live stock at Edmonton Stock Yards for 1922—90,377 cattle, 13,552 calves, 73,636 hogs, 16,114 sheep, 472 horses. The total value of stock passing thru the Yards during the year just past is placed at nearly five million dollars.

Re P.O. Money Orders.

It has come to the notice of the Post Office Dept. that money orders have recently been purchased for small sums, such as twenty-five cents, and amounts afterwards raised and payment obtained through business firms cashing the orders. The public are warned that money orders should not be cashed for unidentified strangers, particularly orders made payable at other places.

The Grove v. Stony.

Spruce Grovers in large numbers came up to Stony the beginning of the week, to back their team, when the latter tangled with the Stonys the beginning of the week. The playing was good, and goals seemed hard to get, the score at the end of the first half being 1-0 in favor of the local team.

Several changes had been made to both teams when they came on the ice after intermission, and the playing continued good. The visitors woke up and scored 2 goals in this half, but were unable to overcome the lead of the local team, the latter scoring three more goals in the last half.

For Stony Plain, Heichen score two goals, and Johnny (Philip) Miller just as many. Credit should be given to Stony's goalkeeper for his very effective methods of stopping the puck.

Final score—Grove 2, Stony 4.
